A "Big and Fancy™" prize goes to the person who can best answer in 500 words or less: WHO FARTED, AND WHY? Was it Richie Cunningham, the All-American intestinally precocious boy? Was it every mother's favorite, Potsie Webber, as portrayed by the tragically doomed ex-Chappie Anson Williams? Did the Fonz, as they say, "Sit On It"? Was it the gastronomically experienced Howard Cunningham? Or, could it have been the pixie teenster Joanie Cunningham, letting one fly from the kitchen? Send all entries to The Stanford Chaparral, Contest Department, P.O. Box 8585, Stanford, CA 94309. Winning entries announced in next issue.

NOW THAT list of things you're not supposed to do, how did it go again? Well, it would certainly depend on your upbringing, your religion, your morals, your political party, and your income bracket.

It's time to examine the traditional "taboos" of Western Culture (besides studying it): The Seven Deadly Sins. Pride, Gluttony, Covetousness, Anger, Lust, Sloth, and Envy.

Yell Leading came along a little too late to be on the Deadly list, but don't worry, it's at the top of the list of Permanently Disfiguring Sins.

The seven traditional no-nos are fine for the scholarly or religious crew, but when I grew up, there were seven other sins: The Seven 'No Dessert For You Tonight, Young Man' Sins.

Although they weren't carved into stone, they were spelled out on the fridge with colored magnet letters. They were: Playing Ball In the House, Putting One's Tongue On the End of a 9-Volt Battery, Taking Apart Weebles and Swallowing the Heavy Part at the Bottom That Made Them Wobble, Covering The Toilet Seat With Toothpaste, Frivolous and/or Malicious Use of the Garbage Disposal, Transplanting Crabgrass from the Neighbors Yard, and Serial Murder. Needless to say, I went without Mr. Lime Jello Parfait quite often.

Those rules might seem harsh, but at least they were rules one could live by. Clear-cut and unambiguous (although there were a few heated arguments about the definition of "Serial Murder").

On the other hand, interpreting the Seven Deadly Sins proves to be an impossible task. How is one supposed to define sloth? Are we all going to Hell for missing the occasional nine o'clock lecture? That might seem extreme, but the punishment would fit the crime, because in Hell we'll probably have to go to all those missed lectures anyway.

And how come "Gouging out the eyes of a roadside diner chef with a rusty fork, hijacking a passing trailer rig, yanking on the steering wheel to cause a massive traffic backup and gas spillage, lighting the gas with a match, triggering a chain reaction in which dust explosions incinerate a field of weapon silos, causing final nuclear Armageddon" isn't a deadly sin? Maybe they didn't have enough room on the slab of rock they were carving the sins on. But at least they could have abbreviated.

Just watch, the guy who does that some day will dragged in front of the Deadly Sin court, and they won't be able to pin anything on him. Unless, of course, they discover that he was once a Stanford Yell Leader.

NOW THAT some of us are a little too old for the threat of "No Yummy-Wummy Desserty-Werty," there is thankfully another set of guidelines which we all must live by. It goes something like this:

Students at Stanford are expected to show ... respect for order, morality, personal honor, and the rights of others as is demanded by good citizens ... blah, blah blah. [Student Conduct Policies, part II, Fundamental Standard]

Of course, the Fundamental Standard doesn't say anything about believing in such things. Which leads one to ask, does sin require action, or is sin simply a state of mind?

Sin ain't a state like Maine or Virginia, that's for sure. Nevada, maybe.

Sin is borne from the search for knowledge. That would explain a lot about this campus.

No matter how you define it, sin is probably a bad thing.

Unless, of course, you're the 90-year-old man who went to confession and said, "Last night I slept with a eighteen year-old girl."

"My goodness!" remarked the priest. "How long has it been since your last confession?"

"I've never been to confession."

"Never been to confession?" said the surprised priest. "Why is this?"

"Well, father, I'm Jewish."

"Jewish? Then why are you telling me about this?"

The old-timer leapt from his seat and proudly proclaimed, "Because I'm telling EVERYBODY!"

And then there was the epic poem about the bald Irish songstress who voyaged from Troy to Carthage and Italy: The Sinéad.

NOW THAT's a sin.

ASSU

Consider the present "services" available from the our student government. Sure, an occasional T-shirt, movie, or Xerox™ copy might be convenient, but why don't they give us what we really need?

No, we're not talking about nook-nook. But there are some other valuable services which the ASSU ought to provide for the student body. After all, we didn't even vote for them.

You'll be swept away by waves of nostalgia when you visit the ASSU 19th Century Tintype Photography Studio. The authentic costumes and jolly old-time atmosphere will make you believe that you really were personally responsible for the suppression of American minorities back in great-grandpop's day. Plus, you'll take home a handsome souvenir of your day's multicultural experience, suitable for framing.

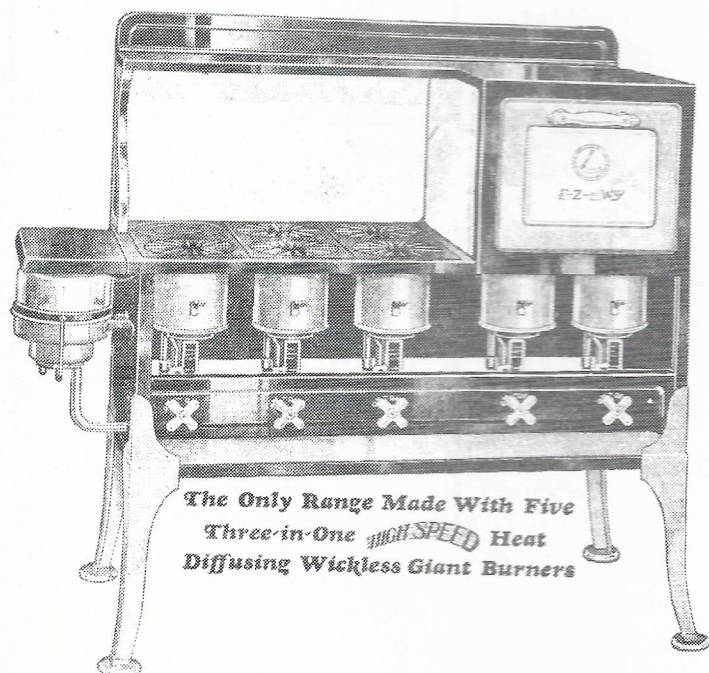

Need to pin down the exact ingredients of that Wilbur Earthburger®? Suffering from a nasty blow to the head? Want to make a perfect piece of toast, every time? Look no further than the ASSU In-House C.A.T. Scan / Chemical Spectrography Laboratory. Once the billion-dollar equipment becomes fully operational, the ASSU "Beat the Urine Test" service won't be far behind.

We all know how hard it is to find a good mechanic you can trust, and when it comes to body work, it's not only your car, but your campus image that's at stake. That's why you need the ASSU Van Painting and Body Shop Garage. Choose from such popular designs as "The Stanford Logo," "The Stanford Quad," and "Billowing Flames of Hellfire."

Miss Grandma's smoked brisket? Well, you can't bring Grandma to school, but you can Beat the Meat, ASSU-style, at the ASSU B-B-Q Pit & Smokehouse. Bring in your own slab of beef, turkey, or armadillo, and after one week of slow cooking in the ASSU Brick Ovens — mmm, mmm, you'll be asking the C.O.P. itself to get you some napkins as you pour on that scrumptious Leland's Choice B-B-Q Sauce, available next door at the ASSU Cheese and Fine Leather Shop.

You'll forget all about tomorrow's midterm just standing in line to enter one of the ASSU Sensory Deprivation Tanks. There's nothing quite like sitting naked in a dark box filled with luke-warm salt water to help you reassess your priorities. By the end of just your fourth hour, you'll be asking yourself, Is Stanford the perfect school for Northern California, or what?

Did you use ASSU Beat The Bookstore, saving pennies on such valuable items as pencils, safety pins, and paper reinforcements? Did you stand in line for the ASSU Beat the Post Office, paying just twenty-five cents for a first-class stamp (plus three cents to cover administrative costs)? Were you excited to discover ASSU Beat the Bursars Office, where tuition rates were reduced up to 25%? Then you'll be slap-happy to hear about the new ASSU Beat The Dead Horse, where you can witness the ASSU Senate debate for hours on whether the ASSU should condemn Hitler's annexation of the Sudetenland or endorse the invention of penicillin.

DEADLY Dwarves

Doc got carried away with dwarf experimentation in the 1940's. He is currently residing in a magic palace in Argentina.

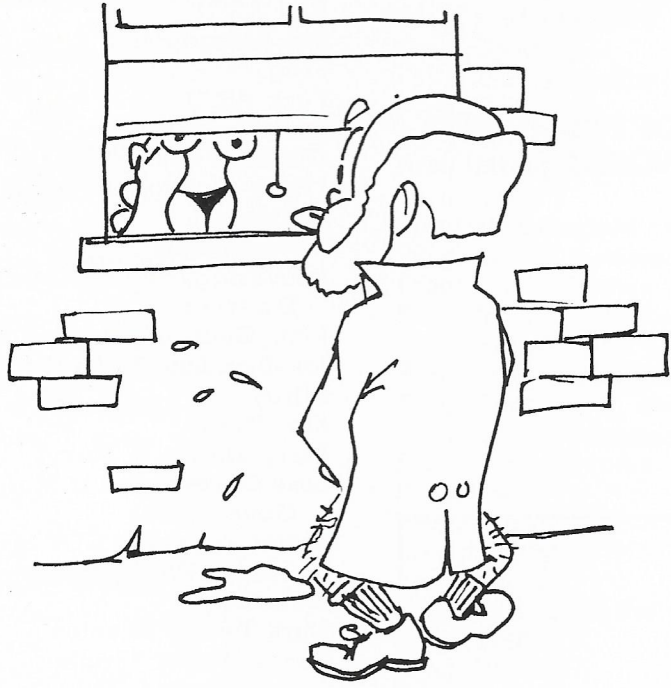

Sleepy used his last dose of No-Doz in New Mexico. He has to get to L.A. by noon tomorrow. He'll be fine as long as the road stays straight.

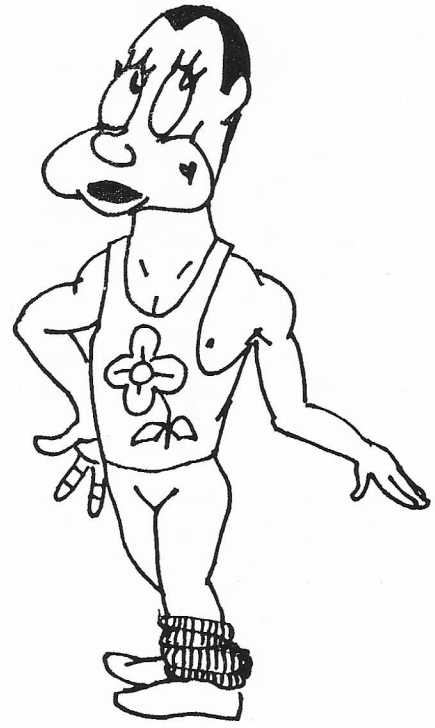

Grumpy got fired by the Post Office, who cited "attitude problems." His psychiatrist suggested he get it out of his system.

Bashful is afraid of women, but he still likes to look at them. He makes $105 a week just by filling a cup.

Happy has no use for women at all. But he often borrows their clothes.

Sneezy is very important to both Dopey and Snow White. Sneezy is also a very close friend of "White Snow."

Dopey is a professional musician. When he and his friends aren't performing, they drool on each other.

WRITE-IN VOTES

At the start of the well-documented uproar that followed the 1990 ASSU Election, write-in votes were thrown out from the vote totals. This one, innocent action triggered a chain of curious events leading to the virtual delegitimization of the ASSU as a representative student body. But that's neither here nor there.

As a public service to the Stanford community, as an important artifact of Stanford history, and as a tribute to the creative individuals who tried in vain to express their valuable political opinions, the Chappie presents a partial list of those unfortunate write-in votes that were disqualified. These are actual votes by actual students, thrown out as "incorrectly marked ballots" and uninterpretable expressions of political opinion. We say, judge for yourself.

Special thanks go to Steve Krauss, last year's much-maligned ASSU Election Commissioner, for preparing this list, and to the Nurk Twins for leaking it to the Chappie.

The Council of Presidents is hard at work!

The Stanford Daily, July 26, 1990

COP leaves its office empty over summer

By Jill Sporleder
Staff writer

Though the Council of Presidents was not recalled in the spring, their office on the second floor of Tresidder Union remains empty this summer.

The current COP members faced a difficult election, and narrowly escaped being ousted in a recall. Sixty-three percent of the students voting chose to recall the slate, but two-thirds of the vote was needed to remove the slate from office. During the time of the recall election, the COP members circulated flyers urging voters not to recall them because there would be no COP to work for the students during the summer, Orientation and early fall.

None of the COP members is in the immediate Stanford area, but there is a number where they can be reached posted on their office door.

Goodwin Liu, who is working in San Francisco, plans to come to campus weekly to check on things in the office. He will be paid an hourly wage, says Boone.

The controversy surrounding the election began when the Elections Commission decided not to count the 275 write-in votes in the total. If these votes had been counted, the current slate would not have had a majority of the votes, and a runoff election would have occurred.

Boone says that although the COP traditionally has at least one member on campus during the summer, the recall election forced the current COP members to change their summer plans.

Liu is working for California Tomorrow, a non-profit advocacy group that deals with multicultural issues.

Liu reports that his fellow COP members are outside the Area, with Jamie Green in and Ingrid Nava in

Is it Fresh? THE MALL Mother

So ya
Thought ya
Might like to go to the mall
To see the big sale at Macy's
And what's new at Big and Tall
Tell me is something eluding you, shoppers?
Is this the price you expected to see?
If you wanna find out what's on sale for
You'll just have to come back yourself for a peek.

The Happiest Days of our Lives

When we grew up and and went to stores
There were certain salesmen who would Help the children any way they could
By pouring their attention
Upon all the girls and boys
Showing us all the neat things
And letting us play with all the brand new toys
But in the town it was well known
While they went home at night their fat
And underprivileged kids
Were only allowed to play with rocks.

Another Shop in the Mall part 2

We don't need no Eddie Bauer
We don't need no Benetton
No half-off specials in our wardrobe
Salesmen leave our cash alone
Hey salesgirl leave our cash alone
All in all it's just another shop in the mall
All in all you're just another shop in the mall

Mother can I play some Donkey Kong
Mother do you think they'll read this song
Mother do you think this parody is any good
Mother can we get some food
Mother do you think that this looks nice
Mother do you think they'll drop the price
Mother, come on, there isn't too much time
Mother they say the sale is dying.

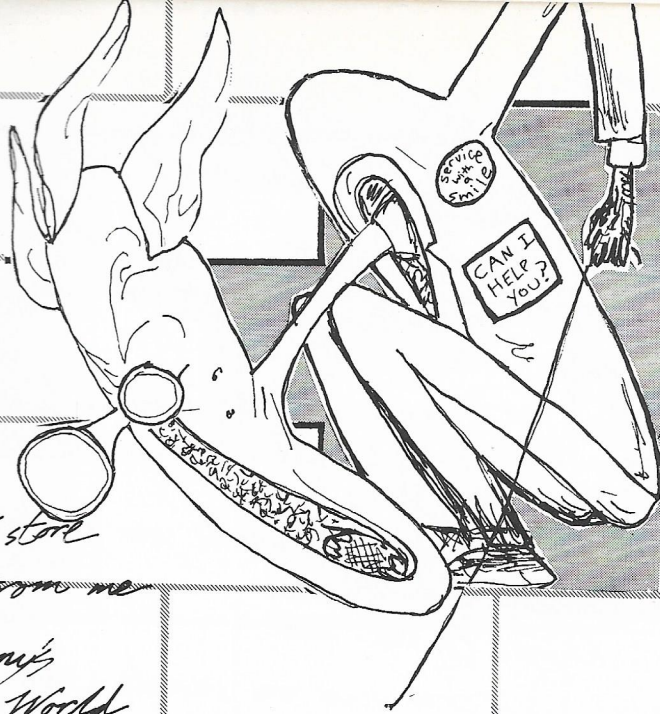

Quick now baby baby grab your coat
Mama's gonna make all your wishes
Come true
Mama's gonna buy a nice sweater for you Mama's gonna keep you at the end of this leash
We'll get ice cream later if you're good,
Caprice!

Mama will keep baby cosy and warm
Ooooh Babe Ooooh Babe Ooooh Babe
Of course Mama'll take you to the mall
Hush now baby, baby don't you cry
Momma's gonna get you a mocking bird
Or a diamond ring, if that's preferred
She might get you a cherry that has no stone
Or buy you a chicken that has no bone
Mama's gonna shop till the stores all shut down
Ooooh Babe Ooooh Babe Ooooh Babe
You'll always need a new pair of shoes
Mother did they need to be so small.

Many Lust

I am just a new boy
A stranger to this town
Where are all the good malls?
Who's gonna show this stranger around?
Ooooooh I need a Disney outlet
Ooooooh I need a VCR
Will some sales person in this deserted store
Ask me to buy some more
Take this wallet and credit card from me
Ooooooh Babe set me free
Ooooooooooooooh I need a JC Penney's
Ooooooooooooooh I need a Record World

Goodbye Cruel Mall

Goodbye cruel mall
I'm leaving you today
Goodbye
Goodbye
Goodbye
Goodbye all you people
There's nothing you can say
To make me change my mind
Goodbye
Where the hell did I park?

Comfortably Clothed

Hello,
What the hell are you wearing?
Just sad if your mother dressed you
What are you, colorblind?
Come on now,
I hear you're dressing loud
I can teach you taste
And stop this senseless waste
Relax
I'll need your measurements first
I know you're not too fat
You can wear a mini skirt

This is my style I'm dressing funky
A paisley shirt and corduroy pants
You're only trying to look cool

Your clothes match, but I don't know what they're saying
When I was a child I shopped at K-Mart
My pants belled out like two balloons
Now I dress like that once again
I can't explain you wouldn't understand
This is just how I dress
I have become comfortably clothed

OK
Just a little pin prick
Your pants will be hemmed!
And you'll look real slick
Can you stand up?
I do believe the length is good
That'll keep you going for the show
Come on it's time to sew

I don't like this your taste is shitty
A shirt with a gator on its left pocket
You're only trying to be in
Your clothes match,
But I don't know what they're saying
When I was a child,
I watched the Brady Bunch
On TV after school
They wore cool clothes but now they're gone
I still wear those dumb fashions now
The world has changed
The plaid is gone
But I have remained
Comfortably clothed.

Hey you

Hey you! out there in the store
stuffing tapes into your drawers!
Can I help you?

Hey you! Standing in the aisles
Wearing shirts of different styles!
Can I help you?

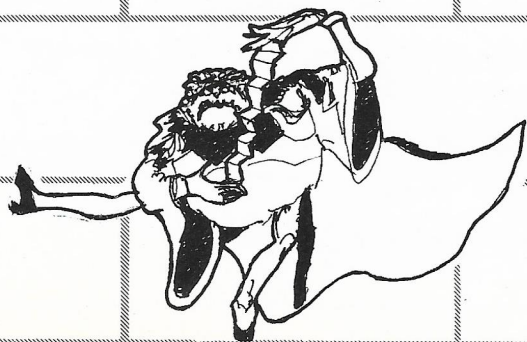

Hey you! Your friends have left you in lurch
We must do a body search.
Now we'll screw you!

Hey you! Are those CDs inside your pants?
Are you looking for romance
Or just happy to see me?

Hey you! we can give your parents a call
We can send you to juvenile hall

I was living a fantasy
How did I know they had a camera on me?
No matter how slick I was
I couldn't hide the bulge by my knee.
And the worms ate into my brains.

Hey you! Out there in the store
Grabbing things galore
Can I help you?
Hey you! will this be cash or be charge?
Is that pair of shoes so large
That you need six socks?
Hey you! there's a million things I could do
But I'll let you off with a warning,
I was young once too.

Nobody Owns

I've got a liger purse with my wallet in'
I've a Swatch watch with a black velvet Elvis in'
When I buy three slacks they often throw a free fourth in'
I've got paisley Gimpson suspenders to keep my pants up
Got daddy's credit card blues.
I've two thousand factory outlets to choose from
I've got a book light
I've got a solar flashlight
I've got a signed Stephanie Powers autobiography
This sale ends tomorrow, should I buy two?
Do you think one will do
To have what nobody owns.

Waiting for the Perm
Ooooh You must do my hair now
Ooooh Beyond a shadow of a doubt
Goodbye straight hair its over
Fluff on out
Sitting in a Great Expectations here
inside my mall
Waiting for the perm to come
Reading a Mademoiselle here inside my mall
Waiting for the perm to come
Waiting to cut off my huge bangs
Waiting to wash out my dandruff
Waiting to follow the stylist
Waiting to put on a plastic apron
Waiting to bleach my roots maybe
Waiting to look like Sid Vicious
Or maybe a little more like Morrissey
Waiting for the Paul Mitchell System to do its magic on my split ends
Waiting for the perm
Waiting for an inane old lady to start talking about meatloaf
Waiting for the perm
Would you like to make your hair large again... my friend?
All you have to do is get a perm
Would you like to get back the body your hair once had again... my friend!
All you have to do is go get a perm.

Shop

Shop

Don't wanna go home
 And do my homework
 And leave the mall
 And I'm waiting in this changing room
 Because I have to know
 Have I been a size 36 all this time

The Trial

Good morning mall security
 The store detective will plainly show
 The child who stands before you
 Was caught red handed stealing peanuts
 Stealing peanuts and going up the down
 This will not do <sup>calculator</sup>
 Call the shopkeeper
 I always knew he was up to no good
 In the mall your honour
 If they'd let me have my way I
 Have played him into shape <sup>could</sup>
 But my hands were tied
 The clowns and balloon guys
 Let him get away with murder
 Let me seek reimbursement from his <sup>folks</sup>
 Crazy, seeing all those toys drove me crazy
 Please don't take my marbles away
 Call the saleslady
 You little shit, you're in it now
 I hope they throw away the key
 You should have followed me more often Than you did, but no you had to Go your own way. Have you broken
 China lately? <sup>any</sup>
 Just five minutes please, your honour
 Him and me alone.

Babe
 Come to mother baby let me hold you

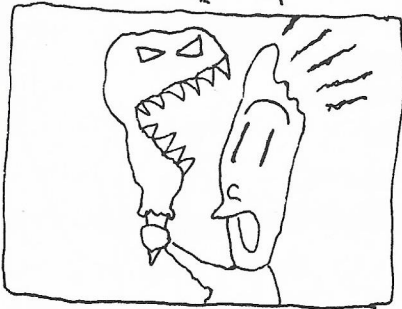

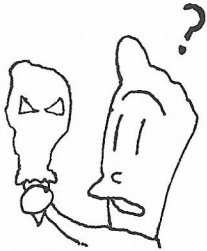

In my arms
 M'lud I never wanted him to Get in any trouble
 Why'd he ever have to Leave me
 Please your honour
 Next time I'll leave him at home
 Crazy, if I don't go potty I'll go crazy
 Gotta go wee-wee
 I thought I saw a restroom
 When I came in
 Crazy, he has to go potty or he'll go crazy
 The evidence before us now is Inconstravertable, there's no need for
 you. folks to pay a dime
 In all my years of security
 I have never seen before
 A child scared more shitless
 Than this one here in this store
 The way they made you suffer
 The security guard and your mother
 Filled you with the wope to urinate
 Since my child we have instilled you
 With fear
 We senteme you to get the hell
 Out of here
 Tear out the mall

I LOVE STANFORD

*She lies in glorious sunshine by the water.
I approach, anticipating a greater knowledge;
she will satisfy the desires of my hungry virgin mind.*

To the world she is swathed in power but before my eyes these vestments are slowly shed, and to me her willingness is revealed.

*I begin to explore, to feel her hidden treasures.
She responds to my probing; slowly at first,
but soon she responds with an intensity equalling my own.
I fervently redouble my efforts, for I know I can remain in good standing for so long.*

*And every part of her inspires me to new heights, from the foothills to Crown Quad,
Where the red peaks rise her solid structures.
Tremor after tremor runs through her;
she shivers and rocks, but refuses to fall.*

*Finally I reach the center of this vibrant creature, the Sweet Hall, pulsating nerve center.
Hoover Tower rises majestically above the Sunken Diamond.
There is nothing like the Old Union!*

*The fountains rush, releasing their life-giving fluid, and the palms sway gently.
She fulfills me like no other could.*

*The first time I drove through the Oval,
I knew true joy.
Though I drive through again and again,
my initial joy is each time surpassed.
She is Stanford and I love her.*

From the "Where are they now" file:

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla (UPI) (August 10, 1990) — Three members of a New York rap group, arrested on obscenity charges for performing music from the controversial 2 Live Crew album "As Nasty As They Wanna Be", posted a $100 bond and were freed.

Three members of Too Much Joy, a Scarsdale, N.Y. group, were arrested early Saturday after performing selections from the album, which has been declared obscene by a federal judge in Florida.

After the Friday night performance, police arrested Jay Blumenfield, 24, Alexander Smallens, 24, and Timothy Quirk, 25, on charges of participating in an obscene performance.

-- Timothy Quirk, a Chappie and Stanford graduate, was a member of the ASSU Council of Presidents in 1985-86, the most recent year the Hammer and Coffin slate served as the Council of Presidents. Since '85-'86, other COP slates have dutifully carried on the tradition of "obscene performance."
