NOW THAT was scary wasn't it? Leaving home, with its comfort of family and friends. Leaving high school where you were on the top of the heap, the best in the class, an over achiever, and an all around top notch dude. Now you're at Stanford, and you're just one of the crowd.

Don't be deceived by the personal attention that your RA's give you. That's what they're paid to do. And don't be fooled into thinking that because you went to a small college you'll be a real person here, not just a number. At Stanford you're much more, you have lots of numbers: ID number, PAC code, PO box number, room number, phone number, PIN number, etc.

And all that mumbo jumbo about you and your roommates being paired up after a long arduous process, don't believe it. It's all done by computers now. Of course the code is quite hard to break, but try adding up your student numbers and dividing by your zip codes and comparing this with other Frosh. You'll be surprised.

NOW THAT's a bad attitude to take though. Stanford's not as scary and impersonal as all that. And plus there are tons of other Frosh just as scared and clueless as you, so at least you've got company. And plus people are friendly here. How can you complain, someone's already given you a free humor magazine, what more can you want.

So get ready for a wild ride, with late night talks about everything from Plato, to Particle Physics, to Power Dynamics, to Phallic Symbols. Get ready to spend hundreds of dollars on useless text books that no one could possibly read in one quarter. Get ready to meet tons of interesting people who obviously grew up on other planets, to hear them talk.

And if you're one of the few lucky students who by design or accident find their way up the stairs and into the Chappie office, where the Jester can sink his hooks into you, get ready. Because if you make that fatal step into the Jester's realm you're in for an especially wild ride. Out here on the edge, examining the very fabric of our existence and most often poking holes in it, causing it to run like a pair of overworked panty hose, life gets pretty interesting. (And sentences tend to run on)

NOW THAT's what the Chappie is here for. The world isn't a funny place unless you make it funny. So, don't just muddle through four miserable years competing for grades with Pre-Meds and complaining about the dating scene at Stanford. Come join the Chappie and spend five to ten years laughing at the absurdity of it all and generally keeping people from taking ourselves too seriously.

Everything I needed to know at Stanford, I learned in my C.I.V. class.

In the Bible, things are cited by chapter and verse. • Sappho was a lesbian poet. • Absolutely nothing can be stated in terms of black and white. • There is no relationship between attendance and final grades. • A lot of different people have a lot of different beliefs about a lot of different things, and most of them are for shit. • Never talk more than five or six times in a section. If you do, everyone will hate you. • Lots of departments have little coffee shops in them. • There is an inverse relationship between time spent reading and final grades. • Look up the names of main characters before section. • Never ever voluntarily sign up for a nine o'clock class. If the class is required for your major, change your major. • Always respond positively to the question, "So, how did you like the reading?" When pressed for reasons, be as vague as possible. • Never use the phrase "My teacher in high school said..." • Don't bother reading the non-European authors, they won't be on the test anyway. • If you fiddle with the margins, a four page paper can become a seven page paper, including title page and acknowledgements. • Never ask your professor a question before lecture. • Never ask your professor a question after lecture. • Never ask your professor a question during lecture. • No matter how much you might think otherwise at the end of a quarter, you will never need any of the books or any of your notes ever again. • It takes about 50 minutes to do an entire Daily crossword puzzle. • When you want a cheap laugh, analyze something from a Freudian perspective. • Never suggest that the section bond with a therapeutic game of "Heads Up, Seven-Up". • Never suggest alternative reading. • Very few literary classics are illustrated. • The guy in Green Special Collections is a freak. • Don't cite Cliff Notes in your papers. • Never say, "Jeez, it's just a story." • Course reader pages are much longer than paperback pages. • They don't assign the best parts of Bocaccio's Decameron. • It is possible to doze within six feet of your section leader. • Other students' ideas are to be considered, analyzed, and treasured as valid perspectives. Unless, of course, they're really stupid. • Never go to your TA's office hours "just to chat." • Never use your TA's home number. • Never ever let your TA convince you to remove your clothes in his apartment. • The Bookstore buyback rate is shit.

CEREAL KILLERS

I LOVE STANFORD

*She lies in glorious sunshine by the water.
I approach, anticipating a greater knowledge;
she will satisfy the desires of my hungry virgin mind.*

*To the world she is swathed in power
but before my eyes these vestments are slowly shed, and to me her willingness is revealed.*

*I begin to explore, to feel her hidden treasures.
She responds to my probing; slowly at first,
but soon she responds with an intensity equalling my own.
I fervently redouble my efforts,
for I know I can remain in good standing for so long.*

*And every part of her inspires me to new heights,
from the foothills to Crown Quad,
Where the red peaks rise her solid structures.
Tremor after tremor runs through her;
she shivers and rocks, but refuses to fall.*

*Finally I reach the center of this vibrant creature, the Sweet Hall, pulsating nerve center.
Hoover Tower rises majestically above the Sunken Diamond.
There is nothing like the Old Union!*

*The fountains rush, releasing their life-giving fluid,
and the palms sway gently.
She fulfills me like no other could.*

*The first time I drove through the Oval,
I knew true joy.
Though I drive through again and again,
my initial joy is each time surpassed.
She is Stanford and I love her.*

ENGLISH, EH?

By Doodles Weaver

Bad start - be explicit. Say "eighty-seven" "fathers"?

repetition of sound forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Too many "we's" Now we are engaged in a great "gigantic" or tremendous civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battle-field of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

tr - Rule 194, p. 6 But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us: that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

??? meaning? spellings! Wrong word - you mean "subtract" Rule 194, p. 6 little note nor long remember what we say here; but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us: that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

Too many small words - strike it out make up your mind almost unintelligible (trite word use "colossal" Rule 74, p. 90) sp. sp. change around

Not bad. Too much repetition. There are six "that's" in the last sentence alone. You use verb "dedicate" six times. More variety in the choice; your words are too simple. Try again - you are improving.

NEW POLITICALLY CORRECT EUPHEMISMS

—or—

"Hey, some of my best friends are Vertically Challenged."

We know all too well how touchy people can be about what you call them. So in the interest of informing the Stanford community about what terms are currently in vogue, the Chappie presents its guide to the current politically correct lingo (subject to change without notice).

- When you mean to say Black, what you should say is African-American.
- When you mean to say Oriental, what you should say is Asian-American or Pacific Islander.
- Someone who used to be handicapped is now Physically Challenged or Differently Abled.
- The term for minorities is now People of Color.
- Women, accordingly, are now People of Gender.
- White Anglo-Saxon Protestants join the ranks of the downtrodden by becoming Ethnically Deprived.
- Your short friend is now Vertically Challenged.
- Likewise, the generally stupid are to be referred to as the Mentally Challenged.
- People who are fat prefer the less pejorative terms People of Mass or Latitudinally Overpresent.
- Jocks are Physically Overabled or Mentally Challenged.
- The ugly are Aesthetically Challenged.
- Members of the animal kingdom are Chromosomally Different.
- Men must shed their linguistic shackles and are henceforth to be known as Myn.
- Rather than being dead, those who have passed on are Existentially Challenged.
- Lastly, the correct term for midget is Fucking Midget.
